

EVGENII BOKSHITSKII

Software architect and engineering leader.

Experienced in leading engineering teams, building engineering culture, planning and delivering software solutions under zero-downtime requirements while supporting continuous product development.

Hands-on in designing, developing, testing, monitoring, and operating backend and frontend systems. Strong expertise in building backend interactions for mobile applications.

TECHNOLOGIES

---

Java, Python, Postgres, Kafka, RabbitMQ, Cassandra/Scylla, Hadoop, Redis, Memcache, K8s, Terraform, Ansible, and various frameworks related to these technologies.

PERSONAL DATA

---

PLACE AND DATE OF BIRTH: Moscow, Russia | 07 October 1990
LANGUAGES: English, Russian, Spanish, Hebrew
EMAIL: bokshitsky@gmail.com
PHONE: +37491576071
GITHUB: <https://github.com/bokshitsky>

WORK EXPERIENCE

---

|              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|--------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Now2016  | Solution architect at HEADHUNTER GROUP, MoscowDevelop and support all technical and product aspects of the hh.ru service.Develop engineering and product culture across the company, as well as architecture governance processes.As a team lead, led engineering teams responsible for job seeker functionality, employer functionality, and backend services for mobile applications.Created a company-wide event system that supports analytics and production requirements.Designed and organized the rollout of the platform authorization system.Introduced WebSocket-based interaction for mobile and web applications, to ensure a responsive user interface and experience.Designed and implemented a hot-reload system for code in a test KUBERNETES environment, significantly accelerating delivery time for developers across the company. |
| 20162011 | Engineering team lead at BOEING RUSSIA, MoscowMoscow Boeing Design CenterLed the engineering team performing structural and frequency analysis for 787-9/10 and 737 projects. Participated in onboarding and mentoring of people in the company.Suggested, designed and implemented software solutions for templated engineering calculations that helped to reduce calculations errors and expedite airplane certification.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| 20102008 | System administrator, MoscowContract jobPerformed computers setup and configuration for companies in several Moscow offices.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |

EDUCATION

---

|           |                                                                               |
|-----------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| JUNE 2013 | Masters in Mechanical EngineeringBAUMAN MOSCOW STATE TECHNICAL UNIVERSITY |
|-----------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------|